Orlondo Steinauer

Orlando Steinauer is one of the all-time great defensive players in CFL history. He played 13 seasons starting with the Ottawa Rough Riders in 1996, then moving on to the Hamilton Tiger-Cats from 1997 to 2000 and finally to the Toronto Argonauts where he played from 2001 until his retirement in 2008. Orlando actually signed with the Miami Dolphins in 2000 and had a great camp with them but was released due to a leg injury. Orlondo is a 4-time CFL all-star, a 6-time East Division all-star and a 2-time Grey Cup Champion in 1999 and 2004. He recorded 49 career interceptions which leaves him just outside of the all-time Top 10 and he is second in league history with 1,178 interception return yards. An interesting piece of trivia is that Orlando is one of very few players who have been named a league All-Star at three different positions – cornerback, defensive back and safety.

Orlando was a much respected defensive captain and team leader on the Argos, someone who all the players spoke highly of his leadership qualities. Fans in 2007 also thought the same of Steinauer as he was runner-up in voting for the all-time Argonaut safety; Marv Luster, another defensive standout for the team from 1964 to 1972, edged out Orlando in voting.

Following his retirement from the playing field, Orlando turned his attention to his foundation called the OZone. His mission is to work with disadvantaged children, especially those in single parent households as Orlando himself grew up with a single mom as his parent.

For the 2010 season, Steinauer has signed on as the Argonauts as Defensive Backs Coach.
