

Jerry Howarth

Jerry Howarth knows what it takes to build a winning team. He has been the Toronto Blue Jays play-by-play announcer for the team's radio broadcast since 1981.

Audiences get special access to the Blue Jays clubhouse as Jerry discusses how their championships were won and lost, and how the team has been rebuilt through leadership, dedication, commitment and teamwork.

Filled with entertaining anecdotes from his extensive radio and sports coaching experience, Jerry inspires audiences as he explores the lessons he learned along the way, and how these lessons can be applied to one's workplace. Audiences learn the importance of leadership, the key aspects of effective coaching, the role of communication and the need to build a positive team spirit.

Jerry grew up in a Catholic household and in 1985, Jays' pitcher Gary Lavelle gave Jerry a Bible and suggested that he read one proverb a day. The seeds of faith were planted and subsequently Howarth gave his life to the Lord. He speaks frequently in churches about his faith and his affiliation with baseball.
